Governing for Transformation towards Sustainable Small-Scale Fisheries

The speakers will discuss several social science-oriented approaches that have shaped recent thinking about small-scale fisheries. The intended audience for this open-access FAO book is broad-based and includes fisheries and aquatic management practitioners and policymakers, scientists and educators. It is an invitation to a new generation of resource managers to be aware of how approaches and concepts have evolved over time to embrace the challenge of advancing transformation towards a more inclusive, equitable, sustainable, and less vulnerable small-scale fisheries.

GOVERNING FOR TRANSFORMATION
TOWARDS SUSTAINABLE SMALL-SCALE FISHERIES

V2V THEMATIC WEBINAR SERIES 2025

Speakers:

Fikret Berkes

Fikret Berkes is a Distinguished Professor Emeritus at the University of Manitoba's Natural Resources Institute. Dr. Berkes has devoted most of his professional life to investigating the relations between societies and their resources, and to examining the conditions under which the "tragedy of the commons" may be avoided. He works on theoretical and practical aspects of commons and community-based management, traditional ecological knowledge (Indigenous knowledge), and social-ecological resilience.

Nicole Franz

Nicole Franz is a development economist with 18 years of experience in intergovernmental organizations. Nicole is an expert in the political economy of sustainable development, leading the Equitable Livelihoods Team in FAO's Fisheries and Aquaculture Division. She coordinates the implementation of the Voluntary Guidelines for Securing Sustainable Small-Scale Fisheries in the Context of Food Security and Poverty Eradication (SSF Guidelines) with a focus on inclusive policy processes and stakeholder empowerment.
